the trend of the argument was strongly in favor of the Main Street site.

W. A. Kleversahl asserted that the south side of Main Street is the only logical location for the station, and that it should occupy all space between Fifteenth and Seventeenth Streets, and Main Street and the river, thus allowing for considerable growth of the city. To locate it in the West End, he said, would positively interfere with the growth of the city, and would make it very difficult for some roads to enter.

Several of the speakers urged the hecessity for activity on the part of the association's committees, the creed of the croganization being that all public officers peed a little prodding. It was urged that the newly elected officers be compelled to show what they are good for. The recent impurity in the water supply, which caused some sickness and much alarm, was criticized, and also the condition of various sewer basins that are obstructed. In view of these examples of carelessness on the part of public servants, the association feels that it is its duty to fight for the rights of the public.

The who asks for nothing will get it; let us strike high, if we lose our pressed it.

Report of Special Accountant Dr. Levy Recommends Hypoand City Engineer Not Fully Heard.

Another delay in the serious consideration of annexation of territory to the city was sustained last night when the special Council Committee on Annexation adjourned without doing anything at all. The committee was appointed February 5, and beyond taking a few motorcar rides through the suburbs, and hearing some long-winded speeches, it has done little or nothing to prepare an actual plan for acceptance or rejection by the City Council. After an hour's delay, only four members could be secured last night, Chairman Powers and Messrs, Butler, Jones bers could be secured last night. Chairman Powers and Messrs. Butler, Jones and Umlauf being present. Aldermen Puller and Gilmer and Councilman Mills did not show up, the latter being reported as out of the city. Mr Umlauf was anxious to attend a political meeting in Clay Ward, and made frequent motions to adjourn, which finally prevailed, the committee adjourning without setting any further date for a meeting. Alderman Paul, though not a member of the committee, was present to object to annexation. He said there was a street somewhere in Clay didn't see any reason for taking in more territory.

Had Report Rendy.

At a former meeting of the committee City Engineer Charles E. Bolling and Special Accountant George S. Crenshiw were requested to examine the territory east of the city, suggested by the Chamber of Commerce for annextation, beginning at the north bank of James River, at the mouth of Almond's Creek, and working around to the north of the city, at the intersection of the Chesapeake and Chio Railway tracks. They were ready to report with maps and figures

Instead of racing over the country in motor cars, as the committee had done, they had driven leisurely over it in a buggy, examining each section, and that he did not anticipate any serious trouble, although he thought the hypochlorite plant necessary. HENRICO LASSIES DOING GOOD WORK

Great Help in Social Life of the County.

Henrico County, in preparation for the fairs and exhibitions of the coming autumn. A spirit of good natured rivalry exists among the members, and all are expecting to care for more or less of the summer products. The Henrico clubs include about forty of the most enthusiastic workers in the State. Each girl is culti-vating one-tenth of an acre of tomatoes, while many are also raising peppers, beans and cucumbers. It requires a great deal of perseverance for the girls to tend these gardens. There is a continual fight against insects diseases and possible drought, but in spite of the hard work, they are getting pleasure out of the labor, and are learning to be better home makers and more enthusiastic mem-county is by no means neglected. different clubs are enjoying afternoon Durham, N. C. meetings where the members are studying the best methods of caring for the gardens and their products. The meetings are enjoyed more partic-ularly, and are gaining in popularity, in that they bring the various groups of girls together from separated farms and add no little to the pleasures of the summer. There is an opportunity for an exchange of ideas that is proving very helpful.
